1 · TRUCKING: INSURANCE FOR TRUCKERS

We cover everyone from the owner-operator starting with a first authority to established fleets: dry van, reefer, flatbed, hot shot, box truck, dump and more.

Coverage	What it protects	Who needs it
Auto Liability	Damage and injuries the truck causes to others. The foundation for operating under an authority.	Every trucker with their own authority
Physical Damage	Damage to your own truck or trailer: collision, theft, fire, vandalism.	Anyone protecting their equipment or financing it
Motor Truck Cargo	The freight being hauled.	Required by brokers and shippers
Non-Trucking Liability	Liability when the truck is used off dispatch.	Owner-operators leased to another carrier

Coverage	What it protects	Who needs it
Trailer Interchange	Third-party trailers under an interchange agreement.	Anyone pulling trailers they don't own
General Liability	Claims from operations outside the truck: yard, loading and unloading.	Required by many contracts and yards
Occupational Accident / Workers' Comp	Injuries to the driver or employees.	Owner-operators and fleets with employees

Service that comes with the policy

- Filings: federal and state (FMCSA and each state).
- Certificates (COI) for brokers, shippers and yards.
- Endorsements: add or remove units and drivers.
- Renewals reviewed ahead of time, comparing options.

2 · BUSINESS POLICIES: INSURANCE FOR ANY BUSINESS

A commercial policy protects the business when a customer, an employee or a third party files a claim. It is what landlords, contracts and large companies ask for before working with you. If you have a location, employees or contracts, you need one.

Coverage	In plain words	Why it is required
General Liability (GL)	A customer slips at your location or your business damages someone's property: the policy responds.	Required by landlords, contracts and large clients
Workers' Comp	An employee gets hurt on the job: it covers medical costs and lost wages.	Required by contracts; without it the business is exposed to employee lawsuits
